DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Shuman et al. .

The patent to Shuman et al. discloses a Driver interface 250 that interacts with critical system control program 230 to change the limits of driver inputs if there are ambiguities found between the driver request and the sensory inputs from sensors 202 that tell about the environment. Sensors 204 tell about the state of the vehicle and can also change the degree of operation of the driver inputs that include steering and accelerator pedal commands. Map database 220 also provides inputs.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3661

Claims 9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shuman et al..

The patent to Shuman lacks disclosure of a steering column lever to adjust the speed of the vehicle.

The use of a lever to adjust the speed of a vehicle is old and well known in the cruise control environment as admitted by the applicant in the last response. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a lever on the steering column to input the drivers request for change of speed in order to make it convenient to the driver.

Claims 2-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shuman et al. in view of Vaughn.

The patent to Shuman et al. discloses an in vehicle computing architecture as described above that lacks the use of change of control of the vehicle speed dependent on location and roadway. The patent to Vaughn discloses the use of location and roadway speed limit to limit the extent of change of speed. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the system of Shuman et al. with a location and road sensitive speed system as taught by Vaughn in order to control the speed change of the vehicle.
